

STATE RANKINGS

The California Wrestler (www.thecaliforniawrestler.com) prides in providing the most comprehensive and transparent rankings in the country – the underlying process has been time-tested and proven over many years. For those who argue that “rankings don’t matter” we’d be the first to agree. However, sports and rankings often go hand-in-hand so it’s important to have a centralized, data-driven resource that accurately tracks the top individuals. It may not be a perfect system but it’s a good, consistent one – covering a state that has 27,000 wrestlers from 900 programs. Wrestlers are placed at their projected weights using line-up feedback from over 100+ coaches.

Rankings criteria will be consistent with those applied at most tournament seeding meetings – among them, (1) head-to-head results, prioritizing most recent match-ups and in-state competition; (2) returning state medalist or qualifier; (3) returning section medalist; (4) common opponents; (5) quality of tournament schedule. Another important component will be season’s body of work as discretion must be made when conflicting H2H results occur. Competitors who do not have season results will hold “frozen” status (no ranking) and will be placed back in the lists upon their return.

There is a predictive nature to these rankings – over the past five years, using the final rankings released prior to the state meet, over 90% of eventual placers were ranked in the top 12 and 97% were ranked in the top 16. So if you’re on the list, you’re obviously doing something right!

STATE TEAM RANKINGS

Team rankings are based on predicted performance at the season-ending State Tournament, as determined by theoretical points earned by individual wrestlers (i.e. if a wrestler is ranked #1, 30 points is a fair approximation for a tournament winner; and if a wrestler is ranked #8, he would score a predicted 8.5 points). So on and so forth. Dual meet results will have no bearing in the team rankings and two wrestlers at minimum must be ranked for a school to make the list.
